About the Master

The Joint Master's Degree in "Migration Studies: Governance, Policies and Cultures" between the three Tunisian Partner Universities: Tunis El Manar University, El Manouba University, Tunis University is MIGRANTS Projects' main objective.

MIGRANTS project promotes a broad multi-stakeholder partnership to address higher education in migration in Tunisia in all its dimensions including migrants, diasporas, local communities, civil society, academia, the private sector, parliamentarians, trade unions, national human rights institutions, the media and other relevant stakeholders in migration governance both in the Partner Country and in Europe.

The Master's Degree in Migration Studies is an interdisciplinary two years programme offered in English that provides students with a comprehensive understanding of the opportunities and challenges represented by international migration.

The degree course is offered at the Higher Institute of Human Sciences of Tunis.

Master's students can enjoy Erasmus+ International credits Mobility and Double Degree Programs

Why this Master?

Thanks to education, knowledge and capabilities acquired during the study programme, students will obtain a range of high-level skills and competences: multi-dimensional analyses of migration and integration in a wide range of contexts, including the competence to understand the causes, patterns and effects of international migration, understand and use both quantitative and qualitative methods, as well as cultural analysis, conflict analysis, management and administration of migrant policies and governance.

Job Opportunities

This degree in Migration Studies seeks to prepare students for research at the PhD level and for a professional career as specialists and experts within institutions and organisations – public and private, national and international – dealing with migration issues. The Master's programme will train students for a career in political institutions concerned with immigration and integration policies at the national and the international level.

Graduates of Migration Studies will be suitable candidates for positions in governmental organisations as policy analysts and policy advisors, in local and international NGOs and research institutes as consultants.

How to Apply?

The Master's Degree in Migration Studies accepts up to 25 students coming from Tunisian BA but also to students coming from Middle East and Nord Africa, Sub-Saharan Region and Europe.

The Master's Degree in Migration Studies is open for 25 students: 6 from the University of Tunis El Manar, 6 from the University of Tunis, 6 from the University of La Manouba, 3 from other Tunisian Universities and 4 international students.

The call is published in June and students can apply through a specific procedure that can be found on Migrants Website at the section "Students Enrolment".

Students say about the Master..

"The courses I took broadened my knowledge vis-à-vis the factors, trends and outcomes of migration. I now can comprehend sociopolitical and conflict analysis to understand how the world works. Absolutely worth it!"

Sarah Ben Hamadi

"This master is shaping my perspective culturally, politically and socially. I no longer get influenced by the media and I have learned to take some distance from propaganda around migration".

Fatma Mahdhibi
